Send for prospectus:

Robert Louis Stevenson will contribute regularly to each number during the year.
He will write of many topics, old and new, and in a familiar and personal way,
which will form new bonds of friendship between the author and his thousands of readers. In the first paper, entitled "A Chapter on Dreams," appearing in the January number, he relates micidentally,
in connection with the general subject,
some interesting facts concerning the origin of the now famous story "Strange gin of the now famous story Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde by E. H. Blashfield; two papers by Ed.

L. Wilson; illustrating results of recent Egyptian research; a further article by William F. Apthorp, on a subject counceted with his recent contribution on Wagner, and many others of equal interest, Professor Shaler's articles on the Surface of the Earth will be continued; and articles upon two of the most interesting groups of contemporary European writers
will be accompanied by rich and novel portrait illustrations.
Electricity in its various applications as

Electricity in its various applications as a motive power, Explosives, etc., will be the subjects of another group of illustrated articles of equal practical interest, by leading authorities upon these topics.

Mendelssohn's Letters written to his friend, Moscheles, at a peculiarly interesting time of his career, will furnish the substance of several articles of great interest to musical readers, which will be illustrated with portraits and drawings from Mendelssohn's own hand.

The Fiction will be strong, not only in the work of well-known writers, but in that of new authors, in securing whose show increased excellence in its illustra-tions. They will be more abundant and elaborate than ever. It is the intention of the publishers to represent the best work of the leading artists, and to pro-mote and foster the most skillful methods of wood engraving.

FEMALE INFIRMARY.

AT WOODSTOCK, VA., to meet a long and pressing need of this great Valley, which contains over 200,000 inhabitants, but without a single hospital for the treatment of female diseases. The building is large and commodious with suitable arrangements, while the extensive experience both in this country and in the great hospitals of Europe, of the surgeon in charge, should command the largest public confidence in his fitness for this special work, and the good to flow out of this institution.

The charges are moderate and very much less than for similar services. In the Northern cities.

The public are cordially invited to inspect the arrangements for the countor of the patients, while everything will be done for their speedy restoration to health. All surgical operations will be charged for at minimum prices, but which, of course, will bear relation to the gravity of the case.
